Notes to the Financial Statements

March 31, 2021

1. Nature of operations

Engage Nova Scotia Civic Engagement Society ("the Society") exists to promote and advance a province-wide culture of collaboration, innovation and self-reliance. The Society was federally incorporated as a non-profit organization under section 149.1 (1) of the Income Tax Act and is therefore not subject to income taxes.

2. Significant accounting policies

Basis of presentation

The Society has prepared these financial statements in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit enterprises (ASNPO).

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents are defined as cash on hand and balances with banks or other financial institutions.

Furniture and equipment

Furniture and equipment are carried at cost less, where applicable, any accumulated amortization and impairment losses. The Society recognizes one half year's amortization during the year of acquisition.

The amortization rates used for each class of furniture and equipment are:

Computer equipment	50%
Office furniture and equipment	20%

Revenue recognition

Revenue from operating grants and donations are recognized as stated in the terms of the agreements. Unrestricted operating grants and donations are recognized when amounts are determinable and collection is reasonably assured in the period of the receipt.

Restricted grant revenues unexpended at the end of the year are deferred when required under the terms of the grant.

Revenue from event registrations is recognized in the period in which the event occurs.

Other revenue is recognized when received.

2. Significant accounting policies (continued)

Contributed services

The Society receives donated services in the form of rent, seconded employees and capital assets. These in-kind contributions are recognized in the financial statements at their fair value, less any amortized costs.

In-kind rent and secondments revenues are fully offset by corresponding expenses. In-kind equipment revenue will be offset by amortization expense over the useful life of the equipment.

Refer to Note 3.

Use of estimates

Management reviews the carrying amounts of items in the financial statements at each balance sheet date to assess the need for revision or any possibility of impairment. Many items in the preparation of these financial statements require management's best estimate. Management determines these estimates based on assumptions that reflect the most probable set of economic conditions and planned courses of action.

These estimates are reviewed periodically and adjustments are made to net income as appropriate in the year they become known.

Financial instruments

The Society considers any contract creating a financial asset, liability or equity instrument as a financial instrument, except in certain limited circumstances. The Society accounts for the following as financial instruments:

- cash and cash equivalents
- receivables
- payables

A financial asset or liability is recognized when the Society becomes party to contractual provisions of the instrument.

Financial assets or liabilities obtained in arm's length transactions are initially measured at their fair value. In the case of a financial asset or liability not being subsequently measured at fair value, the initial fair value will be adjusted for financing fees and transaction costs that are directly attributable to its origination, acquisition, issuance or assumption.

The Society subsequently measures all of its financial assets and financial liabilities at amortized cost.

Financial assets measured at cost are tested for impairment when there are indicators of impairment. Previously recognized impairment losses are reversed to the extent of the improvement provided the asset is not carried at an amount, at the date of the reversal, greater than the amount that would have been the carrying amount had no impairment loss been recognized previously. The amounts of any write-downs or reversals are recognized in net income.

5. Payables and accruals

Government remittances (other than income taxes) total $Nil (2020 - $15,242) and are included in trade payables.

6. Economic dependence

The Society relies extensively on provincial funding to support its operations. Government continues to restrict funding in many areas. The board and staff work to maintain ongoing relationships with the Society's funding partners.

7. Financial instruments

The Society is exposed to various risks through its financial instruments. The following analysis provides a measure of the Society's risk exposures and concentrations at March 31, 2021.

(a) Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk that one party to a financial instrument will cause a financial loss for the other party by failing to discharge an obligation. The Society's main credit risks relate to its receivables.

7. Financial instruments (continued)

(b) Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Society will encounter difficulty in meeting the obligations associated with its financial liabilities. The Society is exposed to this risk mainly in respect of its payables. The Society has a current funding agreement with a commitment for funding through fiscal 2023.

8. Impact of COVID-19

Since early 2020, the spread of COVID-19 has severely impacted many local economies around the globe. On March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization characterized the virus as a pandemic. In many countries, including Canada, organizations are being forced to cease or limit operations for long or indefinite periods of time. Measures taken to contain the spread of the virus, including travel bans, quarantines, social distancing, and closures of non-essential services have triggered significant disruptions to businesses worldwide, resulting in an economic slowdown. Global stock markets have also experienced great volatility and a significant weakening. Governments and central banks have responded with monetary and fiscal interventions to stabilize economic conditions.

Since March 31, 2021, the spread of COVID-19 has continued to impact local and global economies. The Society has determined that the pandemic will not have an impact of the Society's ability to continue as a going-concern as grants will continually be applied for and funding obtained.

The duration and impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as the effectiveness of government and central bank responses, remains unclear at this time. It is not possible to reliably estimate the duration and severity of these consequences, as well as their impact on the financial position and results of the Society future periods.
